

Is it possible that while you're reading this poster, another intelligent being on a planet light years away is reading a poster which speculates on the possibility that an intelligence alien to it is at the same time reading a poster which speculates on the possibility of an alien intelligence reading a poster?