

Which is Best?

- researching career possibilities at a young age
- planning for a career at a young age
- waiting until you "mature" to research or select a career
- just "go with the flow" and let it happen

A job is something you have to do. A career is something you want to do.