

CONSISTENCY

Does it create a predictability that often drains situations of their novelty and interest?

Is mathematics "beautiful" because of it?

Can it produce injustice?