

The great use of life is to spend it for something that will outlast it.

William James