

"My chief consolation in this year of living dyingly has been the presence of friends."

— Christopher Hitchens,
during the last year of his life
1949-2011

