

Music is the only art form that exists only in time, and time is one of reality's most mysterious aspects. Does this account for music's ability to captivate us?