

TEXT

In today's academic world, text has changed.

It used to be words, usually written. Now, text is any perception to which we can assign meaning, like an image, sounds, or even a facial expression.

